Since Turkey is a neighbor of a hot region, its surroundings are currently in a situation like a ring of fire. First of all, if we look at the issue from a big perspective and put it in position, as you know, the United Nations was established by determining the principles for the management of the world by the five countries that won the World War II. In other words, if America, France, England, Russia and China, the winner of the World War II, and one of the 5 Permanent Members of the Security Council in the United Nations agreement are opposed to anything, no decision can be taken in the world, or the decisions taken cannot be implemented.

Therefore, when we look at the event in this way, these 5 countries were organized in a way to ensure control over the world by creating this event in the United Nations in the world.

Especially after 1990, that is, after the collapse of the Soviet Union, in the unipolar world, the United States of America has more or less placed its naval-air-land bases on the world in a way that it can control the third world countries and Islamic countries.

For example, our Armed Forces is divided into 4 army regions as a land force, namely east, west, south and Aegean. There is the Combat Forces Command of the United States, one in North America, one in South America, with headquarters and responsibility, one in central Europe, the European Command, one in the African Forces Command; an Asian Force Command in Afghanistan and a Pacific Forces Command.

In other words, the America has deployed the Combat Force Commands with their headquarters to provide control all over the world.

Likewise, our Navy, let's say, is active in the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, while the United States has 6 fleets, which are scattered in the seas around the world. The second and third fleets, protecting the east coast of America from the Atlantic Ocean, and the west coast from the Pacific; with the fifth fleet controlling South America, the fourth fleet controlling South Asia, the Arabian Peninsula and Southern Africa in the Indian Ocean; As we know, the sixth fleet is in charge of the eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean, the seventh fleet is in charge of the Pacific, with its base in Japan.

Therefore, there are 139 such Land, Naval and Air bases of the USA in the world and these bases are organized on the world states in 1183 garrisons as garrison. We can say that the United States of America is divided into three military forces, 1/3 of which is stationed in bases outside its own country, the other 1/3 is preparing to go there in its own country, and the other 1/3 is at rest. In other words, it maintains its dominance by serving over the world like a security post allocated to a guard post.

As we know, Russia has not been able to exist outside its own country in the strategic area since 1990, after the collapse of the Soviet Union. Except for Ukraine, that also happened recently. In other words, it did not have any military presence and activity in the struggle for World Domination in the strategic sense. The Russian Federation has not yet been able to establish its new order.

In 2010, the Russian Federation reorganized its Armed Forces and divided its country into 4 main command regions. It has also organized Joint Strategic Eastern Command in charge of Asian and Pacific borders; Joint Strategic Western Command in Siberia in charge of European borders;

Joint Strategic Southern Command to be responsible for the Black Sea and Caspian Sea coasts; Joint Strategic Northern Command to be responsible for the Baltic coast and Scandinavian borders and deployed it in its own Country. In other words, while the United States of America places most of its military power in 139 military bases around the world, it has 6 military bases outside Russia. Four of them are located in the Turkic Republics included in the Commonwealth of Independent States, and two are in Syria.

Therefore, the opportunity for Russia to allocate and send any military force that is sufficient for the struggle for world domination has not yet emerged.

Despite this power, America is about to lose its power to solve the situation in the Middle East, Iraq and Syria in the way it wishes.

It should be underlined that America has reached the point of saturation. Its one or two wrong steps or the resistance that will be formed against it may be the beginning of the backward course of the US system of control over the world from this situation, from which it will become a situation that will lead to the beginning of its destruction.

It wants a Syria with a secular system and a divided Syria that does not have the Islamic values it wants in Syria. But it was unable to get its request accepted by the Syrian opposition party. So look, the same thing happened in Libya. Also, in Yemen. But somehow the US plan was put into practice. For example, in Libya, Retired Major General Khalifa Haftar, who had stayed in America for a long time, took the Benghazi region under the control of the United States, in cooperation with the coup-plotter Sisi in Egypt, and declared his sovereignty. The revolutionaries also dominate Western Libya. Now, according to the latest news, they have returned to the constitution before Gaddafi. So the revolutionaries made a new constitution, they did, but in the end they got into trouble and gave up on it. Now they have been agreed to be the kind of system America wants.

Now they have been agreed to have the kind of system that America wants. But neither Iraq nor Syria is not same. They solved it with the occupation in Iraq, but the Syrian opposition somehow did not pay allegiance to America, that is, the opposition, which has active combat groups inside. That's why this issue has taken so long and America hasn't been able to solve it. As a result, at the end of September, a summit of countries allocating resources for the fight against terrorism was held in America. We also participated in this summit, Russia also participated. There, Obama met with Russian President Putin. After that meeting, Russia became active in Syria. In other words, a task was given to Russia by the United States there, in fact, a game was set up.

The map drawn by the USA in Syria is not accepted in the region, 1- Resistance by Opposition 2- Resistance by Turkey; happened in that way.

Turkey, together with the USA, did not take any action against the people of those countries, neither in Syria nor in Iraq, did not cooperate, on the contrary, it tried to prevent some events. Therefore, if America is unsuccessful in Syria today, firstly, the dissidents did not pay allegiance to America; In other words, they did not make any concessions to them, those who said, "If you give us this country, we will give you this." Secondly, Turkey did not blindly accept their solution. Turkey acted in accordance with its national interests and the needs of the Islamic world. Therefore, America could not solve this issue here. After that, DAESH was activated, after America withdrew from Iraq, firstly, the Shiite state in Iraq got out of control, and secondly, the PKK's approach to a solution process with Turkey. In particular, the will of Qandil, and therefore DAESH, was activated by the United States, and the Shiites were attacked and made to attack Mosul and then Erbil, that is, PKK and the Kurdish Region, and then Kobani.

As a result, they disrupted the resolution process. In other words, this is a covert operation against Turkey. Therefore, America is trying to punish this attitude of Turkey, either subtly or indirectly.

But while bringing Russia to the region in the main, calculating this in the background, the USA against the Islamic world carried out a covert bombing on them in order not to be in the position of bombing the Islamic forces opposing the Syrian regime. It said it is bombing DAESH, but it also bombed some Islamic resistance groups.

“But if you want to help Bashar al-Assad in Russia and you want benefits in Syria, come along with Bashar, bomb these opponents according to the borders I have drawn, until the regime forces arrive,” it said.

The Turkmen Region is also bombed, it is in the same situation. On the map, there is the Nusayri Region on the border of the Turkmen Region, these will be revealed in the upcoming developments. These are the Borders determined by America, the Latakia Region.

If there is to be a solution, they want a government that pays homage to them in Syria. If they have not established a system that they can control, they want the lack of solution to continue there.

Let's say they accept the solution or peace there. I don't see the Nusayris and Christians as different from each other. In other words, they are close to each other in terms of faith, now they especially want to expand the Nusayri region. Latakia and Tartus regions are not enough, they must take the Turkmen region there as well. Let's also call these Turks and Turkey a lesson or a coup. They bombard our compatriots on the other side of our border every day, and it is not easy to be patient with this issue. With the agreement, maybe with some concessions, this can be abandoned, there will definitely be some things behind the scenes. For example, Hama, Aleppo, Homs, Damascus are desired to be included in the Nusayri region. Now if we see the bombardments being done. And after all, from January, now as a result of this meeting in Riyadh, a meeting is being considered, which will follow the Vienna meeting on December 18 in New York. It will be determined who will represent whom.

After that, there is an 18-month process, before that time, let's call it a ceasefire, before it happens, the final borders are reached, this is how Russia's main task was developed. But besides, how can we balance Turkey and Russia in any way, there is an element in the Incirlik base of the US Air Forces in the shooting down of the Russian aircraft, so let's just say, Russia cannot use Syria's airspace without the permission of the United States. There is a division between Russia and America in the use of airspace. Of course, Turkey also controls the airspace. America also controls from Incirlik. The issue of the shooting down of this aircraft may have been previously discussed. Even if there was no communication with America at that time, it can be done as follows, it is highly possible that America did it knowingly.

I do not think that this will be an issue that will go to warfare against Russia. Russia does not have this power. If it had the power to make war with Turkey, it would have done it already. I can also put forward military calculations. Let's look at the ways that Russia can approach to us. It may come from the Black Sea, but there are land operations missiles, and they formerly fired these missiles from the Caspian, half of them fell on Iran, half of them fell on Iraq, very few of them fell on Syria. So let's think about it this way. If we leave our car in the parking lot and never go to it for a year, the equipment of the Russian armed forces is more than that, just like our car is when we go to it. In this respect, Russia is in no condition to fight. It has 9 ships in the Black Sea that it can send to Turkey. It has to bring the others around from the Baltic. But does it maintain the atmosphere of tension, it does.

Just as it does not harass the warship, but goes and harass the fishing boat. If it had a military power and had confidence in itself, it could have shot down one of our jet fighters on the day we shot down our plane. It could have dropped two of them. And it could sink any of our ships at sea. Or our warship. It couldn't do any of these. Not it did not, it COULD not. Namely, it has no power to do it. Russia has no power to declare shooting-war on Turkey. It is necessary to know and accept this. Its administrative structure is also very corrupt. When we examine the Russian administration and the Russian federation today, it consists of 83 separate regions. 23 of them are federal republics, some of them may appoint their own governors, but there are problems within them. It has governmental problems, it has economic problems, it has military problems. Therefore, these problems should be eliminated. Also, of the 9 member states of the Independent States, 5 of them are the Turkic Republics. In that respect, the size of Russia is a bit of ineffective size. Also, when we think in terms of sailing, in terms of being a threat to Turkey, it is big in size, but there is only a keyhole to get out of the room where it was chambered. So in the Baltic, the Baltic Navy can sail through the 100 m wide and 98 m long Kiel Canal to the high seas. Likewise in the Black Sea, the Black Sea Navy has to pass the Istanbul and Çanakkale Straits and the Sea of Marmara. In other words, its navy is organized in a way that will only protect its own shores. They have only one strategic ground-to-ground missile systems. We understood how effectively it works, from the missiles fired from the Caspian. It has a small naval base, a flotilla, in the Caspian Sea. It is said to have a nuclear submarine. What is a nuclear submarine, it works with nuclear fuel, so let's say a submarine that will leave the Baltic Sea will come to the Mediterranean, its fuel will run out until it reaches the Mediterranean. It needs to resupply somewhere, it needs a base. What's the use of a nuclear submarine? It can travel longer distances. This nuclear expression does not stand as a weapon, but to provide the energy necessary for its operation.

But it has nuclear weapons. There are 8 countries in the world that have nuclear weapons. One of them is Russia. But using it, that is, what will be the result of it, where and what can it do; also it can use it once. In response, he gets the answer, Turkey has NATO nuclear weapons, they are stored in Turkey. These are top secrets about the launch vehicle, nuclear warheads and control, but Turkey can also respond.

Therefore, if Russia were to be able to compete with Turkey as a military power, “look, I'm saying that it was able to compete”. I am not talking about superiority, if it had been at a level to compete with, it would have responded in an armed way against Turkey with its power. At least it would have shot down one of our jet fighters. It was silent for 7 hours and did not know what to say. It did not know how to answer. It was shocked. So it got to this point. What can Russia do, just like it does today, it bombs innocent people, villages and cities in defenseless and unarmed Syria with its air power, it is allegedly making a missile show at us.

Iran cannot see the results as well. Iran prioritizes its interests in this region. When we look at the speeches of some religious leaders of Iran in the Friday Khutba, they talk as if Turkey had entered Iran. It is something unbelievable. In other words, Turkey stepped in, sent a reinforcement to Mosul, Russia and Iran reacted. But I think the main reaction comes from America. They are under the control of America. Because after attack of DAESH on Mosul, America sent 400 American soldiers to Baghdad as advisors and they are still there. They opened a base in Erbil. After DAESH attacked the Kurdish region, that is, America is now in Iraq with all its conventional and unconventional units. In other words, the Iraqi administration cannot make a move without the permission of America. If the Iraqi administration says to withdraw your troops from Mosul, the pressure of Russia and Iran is visible. “We want support from the Russian administration,” says Iraq. America teaches them and uses it against each other. In other words, we can neither trust NATO nor trust America. We have to put our national policy and our main issues forward. We need to set the agenda without mixing it up, as well as in the government of our country and in the management of cross-border crisis.

The West is really using all the instruments at its disposal against Turkey. In other words, it uses all its instruments in a way that will cause sectarian conflict in the understanding of Islam, in a way that will ensure ethnic conflict, and in a way that will cause economic distress. Finally, by inviting Russia to the region, that is, the 5 members of the Security Council, China has not come to the region yet, but it is sending all of them to be in this region; Russia was providing arms aid to Bashar al-Assad before. But of course, Turkey must be ready for a real showdown.

Or for a surrender. Therefore, we cannot think of surrender. Then we have to be prepared. For its preparation, Turkey's main issue is to eliminate armed separatist terrorism first. It is necessary to include an autonomous Turkmen region, let's say, by setting the agenda themselves, of course resisting what is not right for things outside our borders, or if a map has been drawn, for example, in Syria, and it has been put in front of us. It is necessary to make concessions in a way that will make the borders of the Sunni region a little more livable, and that will prevent the unification of the Kurdish region and preserve a corridor leading to Aleppo.

The Security Zone is mentioned, the 110 Km Security Zone from the Euphrates to the Azez region is a region between two Kurdish groups.

Turkey should not openly intervene in the region with its regular forces.

The Free Syrian Army would accept Turkey's moves, they formed the Conquest Front, and if America had not summoned Russia and had not interfered with the opposition from the air, the Bashar al-Assad system would have collapsed in a few months. In other words, the FSA and Ahrar al-Sham were advancing step by step, and they were successful both in the countryside and in the urbanized areas because they formed such a union.

On that front, the opposition accepts that region. For example, they had representatives recently, we had a conference that we also attended. It was mentioned there that "Turkey should continue to defend the safe zone", they reminded us to say this, 'the opposition adopts the issue'.

Opponents evaluate the solutions to be put forward by the West as follows; Turkey should help the opposition in Syria today gather under a will and form a union that will declare a government inside; the decision taken by the group gathered in Riyadh was to be a 25-person commission, and a 15-person representative would be selected from this commission, but later this number was increased to 32. Ahrar al-Sham left there and later announced that it had joined. Of course, there is no al-Nusra, there is no PYD, but if the opposition said, "We established our government, we formed our administrative system in the region under our control, and we declared our state"; According to interstate law, by those who accept it as a state, let's say we recognize, they recognized other Islamic countries, some countries also stated that they do, then it will gain a status in interstate law. Now all opposition is treated as a terrorist organization under international law. It means terrorist, that is, within the law they formed.

What I want to say is that Turkey should follow such an issue.

Secondly, there must be a confederation or organization where Islamic countries unite to resolve such issues.

For example, let's say "Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Malaysia, Pakistan, Indonesia, a confederation by including some Islamic countries"; There may be a council under which important ministries, defense, justice, foreign affairs, politics, social and financial support can be found representatives of these countries. A crisis center can be established under this establishment, there may be military units within this crisis center and it will take over this problem, call the parties, unite, and solve for both sides.

If Muslim countries do not do what Western countries do, they will lose. We are now in a position to confront the West.

America is about to lose the power to solve problems today. Look how many days America has not been able to open its consulate in Istanbul, there are security fears. In other words, they created DAESH themselves, they are afraid of the monster they created. In case the event in Paris is repeated. In my opinion, the incident in Paris, DAESH, is America's own plan. Do you think why? France, as one of the five, tried to solve the Syrian issue independently, did not join the coalition, did not support, acted separately, was the guarantor but acted separately, did not attend the first of the Vienna meeting together, but participated in the end. When did it participate? After the Paris events, after the Mali events, France decided to join the coalition.

America invited Russia. They did come, but they probably overstepped the line or neglected their mission. The crash of a Russian civilian plane on the Sinai peninsula is also America's plan. Just as the explosion in Ankara was planned by the America, so it is to destabilize Turkey. In other words, America has nothing left but these kind of instruments. It implicitly threatens countries, covertly harms countries and forces them to accept their own policies behind the scenes. This is America's own policy, not just Obama's. We can call it Deep State.

As a result, Turkey's first problem is the fight against terrorism and it comes from outside. In other words, we have to accept that the PKK is an external threat for us. Because the bases of the terrorist organization are outside, the organization is formed outside, trained, equipped, and then sent to our country. In that case, we cannot achieve a full result in the fight against terrorism in Turkey without making those centers passive. Fighting there with regular armies is not something smart. It is necessary to do unconventional work with unconventional and asymmetrical forces. We have a special forces command, we establish a base at our borders, the dedicated teams hit their targets, until when, until this threat is prevented from outside. This is Turkey's first issue to solve. When this issue is settled, Turkey will strengthen its power. They cannot prevent this. No matter how much they support this struggle, if Turkey considers it as an asymmetrical war; For example, the last time they did it, they always used special forces inside and it is appropriate. They used professional soldier, it is also appropriate. So they are sending special forces abroad, which is also appropriate. For example, for reinforcements in Mosul, it can also be used as a separate base, a base where the special units that will go, rest, re-equip and return.

I think Ankara's performance is generally good. The process is well managed in Syria, Iraq and most recently Russia. I am of the opinion that the armed forces and the government act jointly and together on the same issues.

As we said about Syria, it will gather the opposition parties of the country under one will, and this will make the work of the West more difficult. Therefore, what they want to do now is that the process begins, let's put the map in front of us, everybody sign it, and we keep it under control. Unless they achieve this, it is the beginning of their downfall. Turkey should not do crazy things that can turn into a warfare in the right direction within this regard, in a cool-blooded way, without being provoked. I think it is a proper policy that will prevent Russia from being too spoiled by leaving Russia unanswered, in other words, I think they are handling the process correctly.

The move of Saudi Arabia along with Qatar probably needs to increase this number a little more if it increases a little more initiatives. With the participation of Islamic countries, whether they give political or economic support here, I believe that as the number of Islamic countries included here increases, they will be more effective in solving such problems.

Russia is in serious trouble now, tomatoes have skyrocketed to 25 liras, parsley is 7 liras, they cannot find lemons; I don't know how long Russia's opposition to Turkey will last, it's a matter of their rulers, but no matter how stubborn they are, Turkey will not be harmed. Personally, the day after the Russian aircraft was shot down, I said that if they were going to cut off the natural gas, I would agree not to light the heater for a year. In other words, as a result, they are bombing the Turkmen before our eyes, they do not care about Turkey by crossing our border. There can be no such thing. They don't have the power to do that either, hence this answer was given.

Turkey has relations in such a way that it immediately reveals its alternatives economically, it conducts them. After all, can Russia carry out this much? What can happen to it, either it risks falling apart or it risks reconciliation.

We say what will happen if Russia cuts off the gas, but on the other hand, Russia is not in a position to refuse that much money. Oil prices have also fallen below $30-35. On the one hand, America is pushing the gas, on the other hand, it is curbing Russia and squeezing Russia's throat.

We must understand the plan well, we must not be deceived by the actions, we must not go beyond our limits, we must not act beyond our power, the first issue is not to let go of the initiative; that is, if we continue our policies and efforts, consciously, with the first priority of the interests of the country, not the development of events, not the politics blowing in front of the wind; I think that when Turkey passes this crisis period, if it is in the tenth rank in the world, it will come to the 4th or 5th rank.

We are asked to interpret the morale and perspective of our soldiers, they see the real picture better than I do, they evaluate it, so maybe they want to be more aggressive. Our political stability is in the direction of implementing a policy that will reinforce and support the stability of military. There can be no demoralization and hesitation. We see this in the operations carried out, individual operations in the fight against terrorism are very successful.

There are those who see the shooting down of the Russian aircraft as an act against Iran or see the reinforcements in Mosul as if Iranian lands has been occupied. But today there was a news report that Iran is withdrawing ground troops in Syria, I could not confirm the news, Iran's approach to the issue is sectarian and ideological. In terms of energy deliveries, Iran is getting close to the event. Turkey needs to take initiatives to ensure the formation and strengthening of Sunni regions in Iraq and Syria. And, as far as they can, the main issue is to prevent the unification of the Shiite regions and to support the policies that will prevent the unification of the Kurdish regions, I guess they already follow it that way. No matter what we do to Iran, it does not act together with Turkey, there are many Turkish units in Iran, there are Azeris, Turkey needs to use this as well. Some deterrents and attempts should be made with covert operations, but the unification of the Islamic world may be something that will prevent this. Perhaps for larger goals, it may be necessary to bring together the scholars of the sects and act in a common way and work in a way that will affect their rulers and people. Talking through the press weakens relations, with some joint work, such as meeting with the Vice President of Iran during a trip to Turkmenistan, let's say, such talks lead to closer understanding. The issue of acting together in the Islamic world is first revealed at the level of scholars. After that, it is necessary to continue the initiatives in a way that will reflect on the administrators and the public, but it is a bit of a long-term issue. In the meantime, it should be done on the one hand. In the short term, our first issue is to neutralize the armed separatist terror, to ensure real unity in our country, and to take initiatives so that people can enjoy the freedom and comfort they want, without any pressure, with the laws to be passed in the parliament on the Kurdish issue while continuing the armed struggle. After the fight against terrorism, necessary studies should be carried out to gather the borders, regions, unity and unity under a will in an effective way in the Sunni and Turkmen regions in Iraq and Syria.

Iran and Russia establish a long-term alliance, and the establishment of a strategic alliance is possible if they can protect their common interests. If their forces are in a position to protect their interests, they can do so when the two are united. But I don't think Russia can continue it any longer. If Iran sees the need to withdraw its forces from Syria, it is losing casualties etc. It is not an easy thing to wage a war. There is no Regime force in the war. Iran and Hezbollah have power there.

States consider the regime in Syria as the government, and the forces it calls to its territory as an agreement between the two countries. Apart from this, it also considers the opposition, which has risen against the regime, as a terrorist organization against the regime, therefore it does not see it as a state in international law, and the aid requested by the opposition falls under the category of aid to terrorists. That is why I am saying that I wish the opposition could gather under a will and declare its government in its own region and we would recognize it.

America was not invited to Syria, but it strikes from the air or inserts its unconventional forces, so for example, it sends advisers to the PYD region, supplies materials, the British come too, but they always come from the air.

For these reasons, Turkey should not enter the region with its regular army in any way, it should intervene in places where it sees threats with its asymmetrical forces.

Unfortunately, the internal opposition parties approach the event with sectarian policies. Now it is not right to think of defending a Bashar al-Assad regime that killed 250 thousand people. It is necessary to look at what is in line with Turkey's national interests, so Turkey should support asymmetrically and give logistical support to the opposition, it needs to do these two things.

They also spread fake news that the president's children are related to ISIS, and they call it perception management; In fact, this is purely psychological warfare and the internal opposition parties in Turkey is a tool for this. There are those who talk about fake news and of course there are people who can believe it.

What is psychological warfare, it is to create the feelings and thoughts you want in people. Therefore, this is the greatest method of warfare and is very clearly applied against Turkey, that is, our press should act very consciously, news centers should be very careful and examine all the news. To believe the fake news immediately, for example, Russia gave us the news that they will start a shooting warfare, as some parallel centers have claimed. America wants to make us fight against Russia, and they are suggesting that "reinforce what the government is doing wrong".

However, I do not see a Russia looking for an excuse to start a war, moves are being made to push the government back.

There is talk of a world war, we cannot say that it is unlikely, but I think that it is not necessary to exaggerate that much. If we can manage the Iraq and Syria issue in a healthy way, to the extent that we can get both the Syrian people and us to accept the style that will suit our national interests, we should defend our own arguments in the attempts to solve the Syrian issue and covertly support the opposition as much as we can.

We must provide logistical support, covertly give the military support it wants, and organize the Islamic world. And there are alternatives, the power of the West is about to run out, we must continue the efforts.

There is talk of the PKK-Crusader alliance. There is a will for such a formation and they have formed a commission in Syria for this job. There is a structure they sent to the Riyadh meeting with 8-10 members and they call it a commission. The representatives of the Christian minorities mentioned in this commission show no resistance, they can hold the regime or the opposition, they act according to their own regional rights. Turkey does not have the means to solve the Syrian problem as it wishes, but we may not immediately accept the solution sought by the West in the Syrian problem.

It may not be what we say, but the West will not be able to implement what it wants unless we allow it. They have to convince us, and this tension stems from this, we have to reveal our minimum essentials. There should be an autonomous Turkmen region, if there are to be autonomous separate federal structures, the Kurdish region should not be united, whether it is separate, there should be a corridor that will establish our connection with Aleppo, this should be a Sunni region, that is, the Arab-Sunni region. By preserving the geopolitical balance, let us continue our efforts to unite the opposition and for the Islamic world to take care of it. After all, if a regime is to be established one way or another, let's have an attitude that will ensure a ceasefire in a way that will provide what we want at least and will lead the parties to talks, which is what Turkey is doing right now.

There are various speculations about the shooting down of the aircraft, that Russia deliberately had us shoot down its aircraft in order to better settle in the region. Suppose there is an agreement in Syria. I do not think that Russia has a power to maintain control in the Mediterranean. Russia did not want any tension with Turkey. This tension was the answer to the shock, maybe the West knew that this shock would be like this, America knew it too, so this order may have been established by them but it had already come to the point that Russia was of the opinion that “there will be this tension so that I can tighten the ropes with Turkey and fulfill my own wishes in my country and there”. When the USA told Russia that we will reach these borders by supporting Bashar al-Assad from the air, it promised him Latakia and Tartus bases. He should have come by taking the concessions he could make in Syria. It is possible for Russia to protect its interests in Syria after Bashar's fall, by being together with Turkey. Whatever hot thing happens, Turkey will destroy the Tartus and Latakia bases in 6 hours, 12 hours at the most, it has this capability.

There may be those who feel that Turkey is surrounded, but none of them are united and their togetherness is always problematic.

The important thing is Turkey's unity and solidarity, we must take quick steps in the defense industry without wasting any time. Our biggest shortcoming in terms of defense is that we do not have a missile defense system. We must rapidly increase the production of our own defense vehicles. As long as we are strong, the countries around us have to accept us as the regional power. We must not give up and turn back, we should keep moving forward. Let's identify our goals well. Let's focus on the priorities and act accordingly.

Everyone is trying to make Turkey agree to their own solution, they are not trying to destroy it, Turkey is a very important country for the region.

I am of the opinion that our President has the qualities that a leader should have in terms of foresight and courage. I consider this a chance for our country and for the Islamic world. We are governed by a management that can see longer and more advanced stages with the information it has; In this regard, I think we are in safe hands and I think that the policies made are appropriate; We must continue with courage and there is nothing to fight openly, but I think that a policy is being implemented to protect our rights and laws. I hope the future will be better.
